

Equifax Mess

As you probably have heard, Equifax had a major data breach. An estimated 143 American consumers may have been affected. Equifax is one of the nation's three major credit reporting agencies. DOY reports its data to both TransUnion and Equifax. We have been notified by Equifax that they have found no evidence of unauthorized activity on any of DOY's credit reporting databases, including ACRO (the database into which we incorporate the data we furnish to Equifax). The assurance was given as of September 15, 2017. Equifax has established a dedicated website: www.EquifaxSecurity2017.com.

This website contains information about the cybersecurity incident, information to help consumers determine if they have been potentially impacted, information to enroll in the complimentary credit file monitoring, and information on identity theft protection. Also, more information concerning this breach can be found on the Federal Trade Commission Consumer Information site: www.consumer.ftc.gov (use the site search: Equifax data breach)
